Dr. Eisenhower Met By Pickets

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, met here by anti-American pickets, confers today with Nicaraguan officials to find out what the United States can do to strengthen friendly relations with the Central American republic.

There were several manifestations of anti-American sentiment on his arrival. A large group of demonstrators picketed the U. S. cultural center while Eisenhower was visiting there, and a delegation of university students called on him at the embassy to criticize U. S. Latin-American policies.

There was no violence. The pickets, carrying signs saying: "less friendship with dictators," "more aid instead of plans," "no tanks, no arms," marched in orderly procession back and forth before the center.

Midwest Flood Damage Mounts

Flood damage in Missouri and Kansas mounted toward the 10-million-dollar mark today with the mighty Missouri River rolling over its banks from mid-Missouri almost to St. Louis.

The floods, triggered by a battery of torrential thunderstorms that began 11 days ago, have inundated about 365,000 acres of land in the two states.

U. S. Army engineers estimated damage to towns and farms in the path of the floodwaters at more than nine million dollars.

Col. Lee Laurion, Kansas city district engineer, said about 100,000 acres of fertile farm land were under water along the lower reaches of the Missouri. Damage in that area was estimated at $2,500,000.

The Missouri was not expected to crest until Wednesday at St. Charles, Mo., at six feet above flood stage. The river was expected to hold the crest for 24 hours, inundating more farm land.

In northwest Missouri, damage was estimated at $2,800,000 along the Grand River where 95,000 acres were flooded, Laurion said. The Fort Scott, Kan., flood last week inundated 85,000 acres with a loss of one million dollars.

Scattered thunderstorms continued during the night from Missouri through the Ohio River Valley into Pennsylvania and south to the Gulf Coast states. An isolated downpour dumped 2.34 inches of water in Lexington, Ky.

Scattered showers also occurred from northwest Texas through western Kansas and eastern Colorado into southern Wyoming. Most rainfall amounts were light in that region.

The keen competition among the 34 clubs for the coveted sweepstakes ribbon have made these exhibits outstanding. They will be judged Tuesday, August 5, beginning at 9:30 a. m. results should be ready and ribbons placed by noon.

BEIRUT FEARS MORE VIOLENCE MAY BREAK OUT

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Sharp exchanges of rifle fire punctuated by explosions reverberated through the city during the night and there were fears today of major outbreaks of violence before Thursday's presidential elections.

A U. S. Marine was killed early today by one of his own buddies as he returned to his lines from laying a trip flare wire around his company perimeter. The Marine failed to answer a sentry's challenge and he was shot fatally in the stomach.

The Marine was the second American casualty of the Lebanese incident. Last Saturday a Navy pilot was killed when his plane crashed into a mountain.

U. S. State Department trouble-shooter Robert Murphy stepped up the tempo of his talks with moderate leaders in hopes of averting a new outbreak of civil war before the Thursday elections. But thus far he apparently has not found a man suitable to both sides to succeed President Camille Chamoun.

The Lebanese rebellion was touched off by opposition leaders who accused Chamoun of seeking an illegal second term. His term expires this fall and in the meantime there were some doubts the Thursday elections would come off as scheduled.

The rebels have been comparatively quiet since the landing of U. S. Marines last Tuesday and the American Marines and paratroopers here have not been involved in major scrapes with the rebel forces.

Monday night's firing sounded in the fringe area of the rebel-held Basta area near Riad Solh square and near the city's race track, site of two major rebel areas. It was the second straight night of heavy firing.

SOVIETS OFFER CHANGES IN JAP PROPOSAL

RUSS MAKE UNEXPECTED MOVE IN UNITED NA- TIONS TUESDAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today the United States will go along if others concerned want a summit meeting at the United Nations.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Russia unexpectedly offered changes today in a Japanese compromise Middle East resolution. The United Nations Security Council postponed a decision until after tomorrow.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev had indicated Monday night that he probably would veto the Japanese measure, which is designed to replace U. S. forces in Lebanon with a beefed up and armed U. N. observer group. Sobolev switched tactics this morning.

He sought to put into Japan's measure a call for the immediate withdrawal of American forces from Lebanon and, in what was regarded as a strange veering of Soviet policy, reinstated a demand that the U. N. observer group now there "continue to develop its activities." This had been deleted from Japan's original measure in deference to the Kremlin.

Sobolev's amendments would instruct Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to meet the observers' request for reinforcements which was relayed from Beirut last week. But they also would put a July 30 time-limit on Hammarskjold's efforts.

The Soviet amendments stood no chance of passage, although Swedish Ambassador Gunnar V. Jarring gained the council's adjournment until 2 p. m. CDT, to consider them.

If and when Russia's amendments are voted down, Japanese sources expected Sobolev to veto the original measure.

Sobolev announced Monday that Soviet opposition to the Japanese proposal was based on belief that it would sanction U. S. intervention in the Middle East.

Judge Defers Arraignment

INCREASE NOTED
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Employment Security Division reported today that non-farm employment in Hoosierland last month experienced its first substantial increase since last September.
Director William C. Stalnaker said there was an 8,100 increase in non-farm workers between May 15 and June 15, and a 3,000 decrease in unemployment during the same period.
Stalnaker added, however, that an increase in non-farm workers was "not unusual for June."

No Shortage Of Gas Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's 75 million motorists need not worry about possible gasoline rationing as result of the Middle East explosion.
Even if war with Russia broke out we would be in far better shape for oil supplies than in World War II when careful rationing had to be invoked.
Responsible government officials gave those assurances today through United Press International. They said in event all the Mideast's oil—27 per cent of the world's supply—were cut off the United States would have more than enough gasoline, fuel oil and other vital by-products to fill both domestic and Western European needs.
In addition vast supplies would be available from Venezuela, the Dutch Caribbean refineries and Mexico.
In case of war with Russia the Eastern Seaboard would be first to suffer shortages. It is almost entirely dependent on ocean-going tankers to keep its pipelines filled. Tankers are vulnerable to submarines as aptly demonstrated by U-boats in World War II. But the government has an ace in the hole.
It could pre-empt from present owners the Big and Little Inch pipelines running parallel from Texas to Pennsylvania to help keep the Eastern Seaboard supplied. These lines have a combined daily capacity of 435,000 barrels of crude oil.

Police Hunt Accused Slayer

GARY (UPI)—Authorities today sought an accused slayer for questioning in connection with the strange death of a Michigan town clerk.
Nelson Elwood, 67, clerk in the small town of Comstock near Kalamazoo, Mich., was found dying Monday on a Gary street in a rundown section of the city. His clothes were rumpled and torn, the pockets had been turned out and his wallet and watch were missing.
He told authorities his name and said he didn't know what city he was in. Then Elwood lapsed into consciousness and died at Methodist Hospital.
Sought was Charles (Chuck) Hanna, 25, Chicago. He is wanted in connection with the slaying of a policeman in a Ludington, Mich., tavern Sunday.
Police theorized Hanna, who was believed wounded by police fire, may have stolen Elwood's car after robbing him and dumping him on the street. But the car was found later.

CONGRESSMEN DIFFER OVER IKE'S POLICY

SERIOUS CRACKS APPEAR IN UNITY FIRST ACCORDED PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Serious cracks appeared today in the unity with which Congress at first backed President Eisenhower's policy in the Mideast crisis.

Strong pressure was put on the President from two directions:

—A "get-tough" Republican bloc which appeared fearful the administration would not maintain a stiff enough Middle Eastern stand to assure the downfall of Soviet-backed revolutions.

—A Democratic group which urged the Chief Executive not to dismiss the Soviet proposal for a "summit" meeting if there were the slightest chance it would contribute to peace.

Meanwhile the State Department today began the first of a series of secret briefings at the capitol to keep key senators informed on developments in the Middle Eastern crisis.

The GOP bloc raised its voice strongly Monday night in the person of Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland who sharply attacked the administration's support for a Japanese resolution in the United Nations Security Council.

The Japanese resolution, which Russia was expected to veto today, called for strengthening the present UN observer group in Lebanon but did not spell out how it should be strengthened.

Knowland said if U. S. troops were replaced by unarmed observers "in this present difficult set of conditions" it would be "fatal to the future of Lebanon and any other free nation subject to a similar situation."

Costume Jewelry Is Long, Short

NEW YORK (UPI) — Long earrings and short necklaces—that's the long and short of it in costume jewelry for fall.

Some of the new "slim jim" earrings dangle all the way to the shoulder, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute which keeps tabs on basic beauty and fashion trend. And the short bib, choker and dog collar necklaces, with many strands twisted together, have displaced the longropes which we women have draped around our necks the past few seasons.

If you still want to use your rope supply, double, triple or quadruple it around the neck, so it forms a fill-in for all those standaway collars showing in fall ready-to-wear.

"Next in importance is color in jewelry," said Mrs. Charlotte Thompson, the institute director. "Jewelry shades go right along with clothing shades. So all the purples, including amethyst and mauve, will be good. So will the combinations of green and blue, red and rose."

Some manufacturers suggest that women blend jewelry colors with suit or dress, but Mrs. Thompson said it'd be up to the individual to decide whether she wanted contrast or coordination of colors.

New for fall is the bar pin, which grandma wore to hold the tabs of her high-starched collar. Today's bar pins are longer, some of them measuring three inches, and plusher, set with colored stones. New way to wear them: in pairs, on standaway collars of blouses.

The old - time headache band, which came back last spring, goes right into fall. It's expected to be especially popular with two major trends in hair-do's—the bouffant or fluffy cut, and the empire which has soft, flat strands at the front and side but builds to a pile at the back of the crown.

July Will Set Weather Record

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — One more week or so of these cool temperatures in Indiana, and July will go down in the record books as another unusual month of weather.

Through the first three weeks of July, the mean—or average—temperature was less than 73.5 degrees at Indianapolis, nearly three degrees below normal.

June, you'll recall, also was cool. The average temperature of less than 67 degrees was the lowest in more than half a century of official statistics.

The normal average temperature for July is 76 degrees. Meteorologists said such an average normally would prevail during the first three weeks of the month as well as for the entire month.

But this month thus far, the average maximum has been running about seven degrees below normal while average minimum has been running about normal.

So relatively cool have been the daytime readings that only once has the mercury poked into the 90s. That was the Fourth of July, when the mercury touched 90 and went no higher. High temperatures have ranged as low as last Sunday's chilly 66.

The one 90-degree reading on July 4 marked the only time in a summer season that it not too far from over, in which the temperature has climbed above the 80s. June passed by without a single 90-degree recording.

Normally, Central Indiana might have anywhere from 10 to 30 days of 90 or above temperatures. Last year, there were 10, and in 1956 there were 13.

Midstate Hoosiers virtually have forgotten how it feels to swelter in high temperatures. The top reading last year was only 93, and the year before that 96.

Last month's average temperature was the coldest June since 1928 and the second coldest this century. If July turns out to average no higher than 73, it will be one of the half dozen or so coolest Julys in the same period.

The coolest July on record since 1905 averaged 70.6 degrees at Indianapolis in 1947. The warmest was during that blistering summer of 1936 when the average was 82.

Last year, the average temperatures in June, July and August were just about normal. As recently as 1956, however, July was well below normal in temperature averages—very much like this month has been so far.

That month, just two years ago, turned out to be the third coldest July of the 20th Century with an average temperature of 72.9.

Grabbing an Ace Produces Red Face By Alfred Sheinwold

Have you ever done your bird watching at the bridge table? Look for the red-faced ace-grabber. You can tell him by the way he pounces on an ace as though it were an early worm. The red face comes a minute or so later.

West opened the ten of hearts, and the bird in the South seat grabbed dummy's ace as quickly as he could.

Declarer then looked thoughtfully at the dummy and returned a heart. East stepped up with the Jack of hearts and led a trump. West took two trump tricks and cashed another heart, defeating the game contract.

Along about this time, any bird watcher in the area could have seen a red-faced ace-grabber in full glow.

Delay Works Better South makes his contract by refusing the first trick. This is just a common-sense way of making the opponents commit themselves before you make up your own mind.

Your problem is whether to ruff the third heart in dummy or discard it on one of dummy's long clubs. Don't make your own choice before seeing how the opponents jump.

If you refuse the first trick East can win with the jack and return a trump. If the opponents take both trumps out of dummy and then lead a heart, dummy's ace of hearts controls the situation. You can get to your hand to draw the last trump and then discard your last heart on one of dummy's good clubs.

If the opponents fail to take out dummy's trumps, you can ruff your third heart in dummy. Then you can draw trumps and proceed.

Either way your contract is safe.

Graceful Colonial

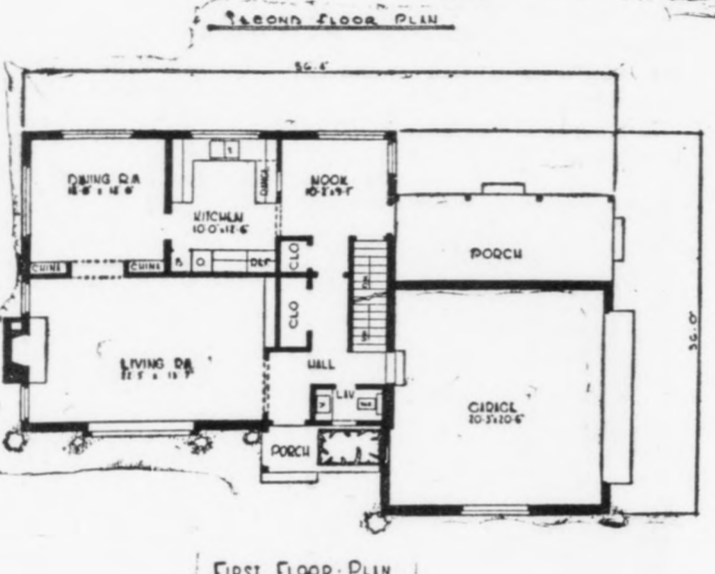

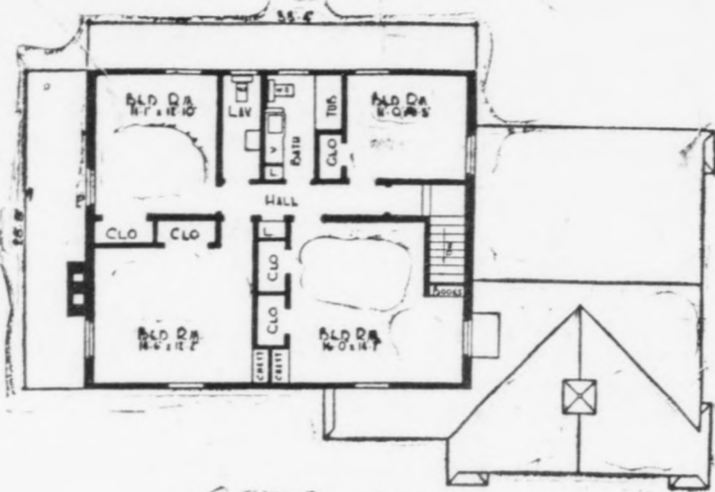

Nothing compares with a two story home for dollar value. Your construction costs are naturally less as you are your land requirements. You can buy a choice building site in an established neighborhood for about the price of a larger piece of land in a suburban development area. As for architectural styling... A colonial has gracefully beauty and elegance that is ageless.

The lower floor has ample living facilities for a four bedroom home. This is evidenced by a tremendous living room, family size breakfast nook and a food preparation center arranged for maximum convenience.

The China built-ins facing the dining room are enclosed at the low half, giving you welcome storage space where you want it most. Special attention is warranted because of the excellent traffic pattern in this design. Note the ideal placement of the first floor lavatory, which will save you many unnecessary steps.

The upper story sleeping wing has four bedrooms and one-and-a-half baths plus built-in chests in both of the front bedrooms. Other features like an extra book built-in in one of the front bedrooms, abundant closet space and covered rear porch, which you'll enjoy for those relaxing moments. All-round practical planning gives you a custom type home you will be proud to own.

Heating and laundry facilities, as well as additional storage and recreation space is provided for in the full basement.

The attached two-car garage with direct approach to the entry hall adds to the utility and spacious appearance of the home.

Rainy Weather For Entire State

A rainy, subnormal temperature pattern dug in for a firm visit in Indiana today.

Southern Indiana bore the brunt of the rain, with Petersburg reporting 3.03 inches in a 24-hour period, most of it since Monday midnight.

Below - normal temperatures were general, highs Monday ranging from 69 at Lafayette to 82 at Evansville.

The forecasts called for occasional or scattered showers, thundershowers or thunderstorms in the southern two-thirds of Hoosierland today and tonight, and possibly again Wednesday in the southeast.

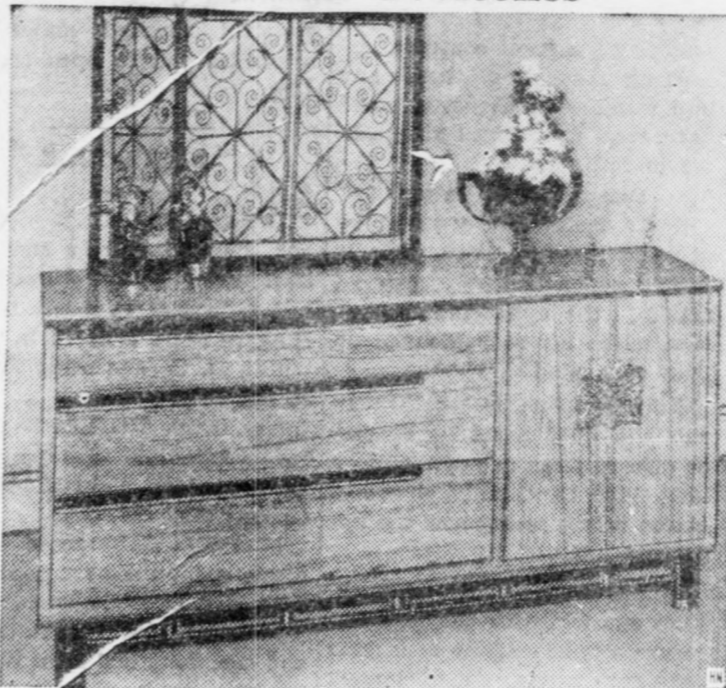

More showers were due Thursday.

Temperatures were expected to warm gradually, reaching highs in the upper 70s today and from near 80 to the low 80s Wednesday. The temperature outlook for Thursday was warmer.

The Weather Bureau said that a river observer at Petersburg reported the heavy rain there was "washing out roads." The 3-inch rain in Pike County was by far the heaviest reported. Evansville recorded 1.02 inches, Seymour .80, Scottsbluff .47 and other points less than a quarter of an inch.

Indianapolis had only a trace and points north of the capital none.

Color Of Pills May Keep Children From Getting Poison From Cabinets

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new and different answer to the urgent question of how to prevent young children from poisoning themselves out of their parents' medicine cabinets is for drug manufacturers to stop coloring pills to make them brightly attractive.

That answer was given by Drs. Hugh Jolly and T. R. W. Forrest after tempting 613 children one to eight years old with pills of 10 hues. They found that most of the kids reached much more eagerly for a magenta pill or a blue pill than for a black or a wine-colored one.

In the past few years, there has been a decided increase in the number of young children helping themselves generously to their parents' pills, often with a fatal result. The innocent belief of the victims was that their parents were taking candy, not medicine and were being selfish about it.

This has resulted in manufacturers and doctors propagandizing parents to keep pills out of the reach of children. But the increase in child poisonings has coincided with the fad of coloring pills into all the brilliant shades of a rainbow.

Pills used to be black, brown white or pink. Now they are bright orange, yellow, reddish purple; they even come in pastel shades. Indeed, there are two-toned pills which came into vogue at about the time the two-toned cars were coming into popularity.

The coloring matter is artificial. It has nothing to do with the medicinal value of the pill. Some doctors have complained, saying they were plain M. D.s and wanted to prescribe only plain pills. But others have endorsed the colors on the ground that a cheerfully colored pill is cheerfully swallowed.

Accidental poisonings of children have been increasing uniformly in the great pill-taking countries, the United States and Western Europe, where the multi-colored pills have swept the field. But it remained for Jolly and Forrest to put the parallel events to the test of scientific experiment, in Plymouth, England.

On one plate they put 10 pills of the sugar, lactose, each of a different hue. The plate was offered to the 613 children for a free choice. There was no advice, and no urging. Children over eight were not tested. The doctors thought they were old enough to know better than take someone else's pill.

The overwhelming pill-color choice was magenta. Next came pink, then blue, orange, brown, yellow, white, green, black and wine.

Small But Vital Federal Agencies Are Merged in Case Of Atomic War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two small but vital federal agencies are being merged in a little-noticed government reorganization move that may increase America's chances of surviving a nuclear war.

They are the Federal Civil Defense Administration FCDA and the Office of Defense Mobilization ODM.

The merger, which took effect on paper July 1, brings all of the nation's non-military defense activities under a single agency for the first time. The new agency is called the Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization. It is headed by Leo A. Hoegh, former governor of Iowa, who was civil defense administrator before the merger.

Hoegh said in an interview that the reorganization has two main purposes.

One is to establish "unified central direction" over home front preparedness planning, which has previously suffered from a "serious overlap" of authority between FCDA and ODM.

The other is to give "increased stature" to civilian mobilization activities, which have been overshadowed in the past by the military aspects of defense.

In his new post, Hoegh is directly responsible to the President and sits on the National Security Council along with the secretary of defense, the secretary of state and other top officials.

He inherits all of the powers previously vested in FCDA and ODM, including a large "grey area" of responsibility in which the two agencies kept getting in each other's way.

FCDA, with 1,100 employees and an annual budget of 40 million dollars, was primarily concerned with enabling the nation to meet and survive the initial impact of a large-scale nuclear attack. ODM, with 250 employees and a budget of $2,500,000, was charged with mobilizing the nation's productive resources to recover from an attack and go on to win the war.

FCDA's specific duties included building a nationwide air raid warning system; stockpiling medical supplies and other emergency equipment for immediate post-attack use; guiding federal, state and local government agencies in planning for evacuation of key officials to dispersed sites and other measures to insure continuity of government; and educating the general public to prepare family fallout shelters and evacuation kits.

ODM administered the defense production act, under which it had broad authority to allocate scarce materials to the armed forces and the Atomic Energy Commission. It also granted government loans or fast tax write-off privileges to business firms building plants and other facilities essential to the nation's industrial mobilization base. It had charge of buying and storing strategic materials for the defense production stockpile.

The trouble was that Congress in the effort to make sure each agency had sufficient authority to do its job, armed each of them with what amounted to blank check powers to commandeer the nation's resources to meet an emergency.

"FCDA and ODM tried to coordinate their activities, but any time you have overlapping of authority, you are bound to have conflict and confusion," Hoegh said.

DIFFERENCE IN LEGS

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — You have a legitimate reason to feel insulted if your host serves you the right leg of a chicken. He backs up this contention by pointing out that the chicken sleeps on his right leg and develops greater muscles on that side.

TO SELL ABROAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House tentatively approved a bill Monday to revive the government's authority to sell farm surpluses abroad for foreign currencies. Demands for a roll call vote forced it of postpone final action until Wednesday.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has said failure to renew the authority, which ran out three weeks ago, would result in lower government support prices for cotton and reduced exports of a number of crops.

"I don't see why buying insurance should be a whole lot different than buying anything else," a businessman remarked to me. "Why shouldn't I shop around and get the best buy I can?"

"You should get the best possible buy," I replied, "but unlike many products, insurance can't be judged by price alone."

"Let me explain," I continued. "When you buy a car, or television set, for example, you can quickly judge how well it will perform for you. But when you buy insurance, you merely receive a promise of performance in the event you incur certain losses. The performance, if at all, takes place after, and perhaps long after, the promise is made. By then, it is too late to change if it doesn't work the way it is supposed to."

"You mean in settling losses?" the businessman asked. "Exactly," I answered. "If you buy insurance strictly on price, you may be able to get it slightly cheaper elsewhere. But, in event of loss, you will probably have to deal with a stranger in the claims department of the cut-rate company, perhaps by correspondence. On the other hand, if you buy from us, we will be here when you need us to make sure the insurance does just exactly what it's supposed to. We have to make good and DO."

The businessman nodded in agreement. "I can see the advantages of buying insurance from a local agent." "May we work out the proper Insurance Program for you?" We'll stay right here in town to see that you get the right kind of performance from the insurance we sell.

GAO Officials Face Questioning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Officials of the General Accounting Office GAO face questioning by House investigators on why they reversed their stand in a new case of alleged influence involving White House Aide Sherman Adams, it was learned today.

A GAO letter last year enabled the Defense Department to refund $41,284 in World War II penalties assessed against Raylaine Worsted, Inc., Manchester, N. H. The textile firm had asked for a refund of $25,462.

A House armed services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) heard details of the case from subcommittee counsel John J. Courtney Monday. It was scheduled to begin questioning witnesses behind closed doors today.

The Army penalized Raylaine $49,771 for late deliveries on a contract for $653,500 worth of olive drab cloth in 1941. Raylaine sought to appeal but this was denied by the Army and the comptroller general, who heads the GAO, in 1942.

It was reported this GAO opinion held not only that the firm failed to file its appeal on time but that the facts did not support the company's contention that the late deliveries were due to circumstances beyond its control.

But last year the present comptroller general, Joseph Campbell, said it now appeared the firm had filed a valid appeal in 1941. This permitted the Army Forces Board of Contract appeals to reopen the case and it ordered a $41,284 refund. Campbell was appointed to his post by President Eisenhower.

The new ruling came after Adams passed along to the Pentagon what is reported to have been a "Dear Sherman" letter from a Raylaine official petitioning for his help to get the dispute settled.

Judge Refuses To Remand Suit

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Federal Judge Robert A. Grant late Monday refused to remand to Elkhart Superior Court a suit involving New York Central Railroad employees who lost their jobs when the railroad's yard at Elkhart was mechanized.

The suit was brought by Elkhart members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers against Elkhart Superior Court issued a temporary restraining order forbidding operation of the plan. The order will remain in effect until Grant hears the case Sept. 4.

LEGAL TO SPANK
STATESVILLE, N. C. (UPI) — It's legal here to spank a neighbor's child—at least as long as the spanker is protecting his or her own property.

DIFFERENCES DELAY REPLY BY THE WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Differences among the Western Big Three today delayed the American, British and French replies to Russia's call for an immediate "summit" meeting on the Middle Eastern crisis.

U. S. diplomats worked late Monday night seeking agreement with Britain and France on dealing with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a conference today of government heads of Britain, France, the United States, India and Russia along with the United Nations' Dag Hammarskjöld.

There was some possibility the separate but generally similar Big Three replies would be transmitted to Moscow early today. In any case, sources in Washington and London hoped to be able to make public the West's response to Khrushchev today.

There were conflicting reports over the nature of the replies. It appeared certain the United States would reject Moscow's proposal for a summit meeting now, outside the United Nations and limited to the Middle Eastern situation.

High administration sources told United Press International the Eisenhower administration is convinced a summit meeting would seriously cripple the United Nations by showing it incapable of dealing with a major crisis, and in addition would feature the United States and Britain before the world as "aggressors" in the Middle East.

Just what the Big Three would propose in the way of a "constructive" alternative, as the White House promised Sunday, was uncertain.

Authoritative sources here denied reports that President Eisenhower would agree to meet with Khrushchev and other government heads at the United Nations in New York.

However they did not rule out the possibility, as reported in dispatches from Paris, that foreign ministers of the major powers might confer in New York in connection with a meeting of the U. N. General Assembly if one is called to consider the Middle Eastern dispute.

DIES OF INJURIES
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Ralph Opple, 34, Denver, Ind., died in a hospital here Monday, shortly after his truck crashed into the rear of another. Authorities said he brakes on Opple's truck failed and he was unable to avoid crashing into the back of a truck stopped at an arterial highway. Ronald Craig, 24, also of Denver, driver of the second truck, was not hurt.

ADLAI IN RUSSIA

Stevenson went on a sightseeing visit of the city of a quarter of a million persons, which lies about 1,100 miles east of the Caspian Sea.

CALLS ON EXPERT
CHICAGO (UPI) — Charles Weiss called on an expert to help him catch a parakeet that flew into his grocery store Monday and eluded capture. Weiss brought the store's cat to the scene and the bird, paralyzed by fright, allowed itself to be caught.

TO PICK MISS AMERICA
LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Judging begins tonight in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium for selection of this country's representative in the seventh annual Miss Universe pageant.

The judges will select 15 finalists from 45 domestic beauties, representing 43 states, the District of Columbia and the city of Philadelphia. Miss Alaska was declared a "foreign entrant" because Alaskans had not approved statehood yet.

House Opposed To Guard Cut
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has approved a resolution urging the Defense Department not to carry out plans to cut the National Guard below 400,000 men.

The resolution was approved Monday by voice vote, with no dissents heard, and was sent to the Senate.

It was the second time the House voiced its objections this year to a proposed 10 per cent cut in the Guard's strength. The House earlier voted funds for a 400,000-man Guard, although the administration requested appropriations for only 350,000 guardsmen.

14 MAJOR OIL COMPANIES FACE NEW INDICTMENTS
SOUTH BEND (UPI) — Officials today prepared new indictments against 14 major oil companies charged with price fixing following a judge's ruling throwing previous federal grand jury indictments out of court.

Cigaret Smoking Is Also Linked to Heart Disease | Lung Cancer Isn't All You Have to Worry About

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Association Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—The federal government has put out another study showing a statistical relationship between cigarette smoking and increased deaths due to lung cancer and heart disease.

In the mind of the general reading public, the cigarette-cancer link has been pretty firmly established. When a person talks about stopping smoking, he usually links his action with the fear of lung cancer. Statistically, at least, the link is there.

But there is as strong a link between cigarette smoking and deaths due to heart ailments. And heart diseases are the number one killer in the United States today. Actually, in the government study made recently of causes of deaths of war veterans, related to their smoking habits, about 10 times as many deaths were attributed to heart diseases than to lung cancer.

In both cases, the illnesses showed alarming increases in the smoking group, as compared to the non-smokers. On a statistical basis, it is fair to be as alarmed over cigarette-caused deaths due to heart ailments, as cigarette-induced lung cancers.

● THE GOLDFINE CIRCUS—The flurry of accusations surrounding the Bernard Goldfine-Sherman Adams case deteriorated for a few days into the realm of slapstick comedy that did neither the congressional investigating committee nor the principals in the case any good. It's awfully hard to maintain dignity and decorum when people are "bugging" hotel rooms, rifling confidential files, and generally behaving like actors in a Hollywood "B" mystery-thriller.

A high, or low point in these proceedings was reached the other night when Goldfine emerged from his room in the wee hours, clad in broadcled dressing gown to denounce efforts of a House committee investigator to secretly record conversations of his lieutenants as "shocking." Goldfine's indignation might have been real, but he voiced them to newsmen via a prepared press-statement which he stumbingly read.

● POLITICAL ISSUES—Despite all the talk about Sherman Adams, some Republicans are quietly congratulating themselves on their good luck. Less than a year ago, they were fearful that Russian Sputnik successes would be a major political issue that they would have to answer—and they had no ready answer. Now public alarm over the Sputniks has faded as American successes and familiarity with the satellite situation have been realized by the voters. Early this year the emphasis on political issues shifted to economics and the recession. The recession continues but it obviously is lessening in intensity, and again the voting public is becoming used to it and less prone to blame everything economic on the administration.

While the Adams affair has hurt politically, and probably will continue to hurt right up to election day, it has served as a counter-irritant to other issues, and is the kind of thing that each individual candidate can disown rather convincingly to his own constituency. It begins to look that the political debates will run along classic and familiar lines and voters will be asked to cast their ballots in accordance with the personalities and arguments long familiar to them.
